Have you ever wondered what kind of house one of the richest men in the world lives in? Well, here it is: a 6,100 m² mansion in the side of a hill in the city of Medina, Washington, USA. It has become famous for the technology inside it. There are electronic systems everywhere. By the use of sensors they change the temperature, light to make sure you feel comfortable and safe inside.

Everybody would like to be invited to this house. Each visitor gets a microchip when they enter. It later sends signals which automatically set the temperature, music and lightning and music according to the guests' preferences. If you wish, you can hear your favourite music even at the bottom of the swimming pool.

Decorations are also high tech. There are speakers under the wallpaper. The paintings on the walls are digital. It means they change and you can admire different works of art without moving. Because the biggest part of the house is built underground, the whole house looks smaller than it really is. There are four levels altogether. They include eight bedrooms, a library, a gym (with a trampoline room), offices, an elevator, a basketball court and a garage for thirty cars.

If Bill Gates wants to sell his house today, he can get about $150 million. Is anybody interested?
